WHEELER & WILSON.
THE GREAT TRIAL OF SEWING MACHINES.
THE GRANDEST IN THE WORLD.
The Judges, the whole world; and the trial fifteen years duration.

PRACTICAL USE THE TEST!
THE UNIVERSAL VERDICT:
"THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE THE CHAMPION!"
AS A HOLIDAY PRESENT NOTHING WOULD BE MORE APPRECIATED THAN ONE OF THESE MACHINES

THESE UNEQUALLED MACHINES DO ALL the different work required to be done in a family, and make all the different kinds of stitches without the complications of other machines. All persons will please examine the WHEELER & WILSON'S SEWING MACHINES before purchasing any other.

The Wheeler & Wilson is well known, has won at nearly every trial in which it has competed the highest award of merit. The representatives of other machines, ever confident, have entered the lists, time and again, only to be defeated; and finding it impossible to compete fairly, have endeavored to decry the value of premiums. They are not slow, however, to boast of a few they have received. But, in the grand trial, daily now throughout the world, where only true merit finds favor, and superiority wins the race, the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine stands triumphantly the Champion by the verdict of the people.

THESE MACHINES ARE ADAPTED TO EVERY VARIETY OF SEWING!
From the lightest muslins to the heaviest cloths. They work equally well upon Silk, Linen, Woolen or Cotton goods, with Silk, Linen or Cotton thread. Seaming, Quilting, Catching, Hemming, Felling, Cording, Tucking, Braiding, Embroidering and making Button Holes, with the greatest facility.
If it be inconvenient for the purchaser to visit the salesroom, the order may be forwarded to the office, and it will be faithfully filled as if the selection had been made personally.
Full instructions, recently compiled, and giving information upon every point in detail, accompany each machine, and enable the most inexperienced to operate without difficulty.
Our interest in the successful working of Machines is not second to that of the purchaser, and we esteem it a privilege to aid by correspondence or otherwise, any person requiring it.

SPEAK GENTLY.
Speak gently! It is better far
To rule by love than fear—
Speak gently—let not harsh words mar
The good we might do here!
Speak gently—love doth whisper low
The vows that true hearts bind!
And gently friendship's accents flow;
Affection's voice is kind.
Speak gently to the little child—
It's love be sure to gain;
Teach it in accents soft and mild—
It may not long remain.
Speak gently to the young, for they
Will have enough to bear;
Pass through this life as best they may
'Tis full of anxious care.
Speak gently to the aged one,
Grieve not the care-worn heart:
The sands of life are nearly run,
Let such in peace depart.
Speak gently, kindly to the poor;
Let no harsh tone be heard;
They have enough they must endure,
Without an unkind word.
Speak gently to the erring—know
They may be led in vain;
Perchance unkindness made them so;
Oh, win them back again!
Speak gently! He who gave His life
To bend man's stubborn will,
When elements were in fierce strife,
Said to them, "Peace, be still!"
Speak gently—'tis a little thing
Dropped in the heart's deep well—
The good, the joy which it may bring,
Eternity shall tell!

THE UNEXPECTED RIVAL.
Brightly glowed the fire in the polished grate, and brilliantly flashed the light from a dozen gas-jets, throwing through crimsoned curtain winds a rich glow upon the snow covered pavement without; speaking to the weary-hearted, toil-worn children of poverty, passing by to their cheerless homes, of warmth and comfort and blessing which might never be theirs. Within that curtained room, where naught seemed wanting of beauty or luxury, a young girl stood behind the drapery, gazing out into the stormy night, and tapping her foot impatiently on the floor, while an expression of angry discontent shadowed a face perfect in outline and coloring, marred sadly its otherwise exquisite loveliness.
The snow fell thick and fast, and but few pedestrians were abroad; none but those who were compelled by necessity to brave the chilling blast and blinding storm.
Suddenly, with a gesture of vexation and disappointment, she pushed away the folds of crimson, and advanced to the fire-side, exclaiming—
"It is provoking, intolerably provoking, here I have been watching for that girl one hour. What does she mean by this delay? I shall be raging if I am disappointed of my dress this evening of all others."

"Why, surely, Ella, you are not going out in this tempest?" said a noble-looking silver-haired man who entered the room just in time to catch her words.
"Indeed, but I am Guardy. Dr. Hunter is coming for me to go to Eriston's ball, and I would not miss it for the world. I am determined to crown my reign as belle of the season by bringing him to my feet, if possible, before another day dawns. He is the best match in the city, and I mean to secure him at once. The girls are crazy about him, and I long to triumph over them."
"You speak confidently," said Mr. Revere, "so I shall expect to wake up in the small hours of the morning with tidings of your success."

Turn we now to another home; the abode of poverty, where Mary Grey, the young seamstress, is bending over her work, a richly embroidered dress, whose lilies of the valley, with richly tinted blue-bells, are artistically wrought in graceful patterns on a ground-work of white silk. It is the dress for which the beautiful heiress is waiting—the dress in which she expects to captivate the best match in the city.

Very lovely is Mary Grey, though no rose-bud tint blooms on the pure white of her complexion—very lovely, though her glorious eyes, shaded by long silken lashes, are dimmed with watching and tears. Her fingers fly swiftly over her task nearly completed, the payment for which is to bring needy support to those who for two days have scarcely tasted food—her invalid mother and her little sister Lucy, who is now nestling at her feet, crying with hunger. The work is completed at last, and Mary, drawing the child fondly to her side, says to her soothingly:

"Hush! darling! hush! sister is going to take home the dress and bring you a nice little feast. Twenty-five dollars we'll have for this; won't we be rich my pet?"
Tears filled her eyes, but she brushed them hastily away as a well known rap was heard, followed by the entrance of an elegant looking man, who, holding out his hand to Mary, said pleasantly:

"I am earlier than usual this evening, but I am obliged to a ball at ten o'clock, and I thought I would look in on my patient before making my toilet."
"O doctor, how can I thank you for your kindness?" said Mary, raising her sparkling eyes to his face, but dropping them again instantly as she met the warm gaze of admiration in his, while crimson blushes brightened her face into new beauty. "Mother is worse, I fear, doctor," she continued, "she seems quite exhausted this evening."

"Has she had proper nourishment to-day?"
"Mamma has had nothing to eat to-day doctor," broke in Lucy, "and sister and I haven't had anything either but dry bread, and we are very hungry; but sister is going to get some money to-night."
"Hush, Lucy," said Mary, while a painful look of embarrassment fell upon her before bright countenance. "Doctor, excuse her; she talks too fast."

An anxious, enquiring gaze rested upon her, and in a voice trembling with emotion, the doctor exclaimed—
"Mary, is it indeed so?"
She bent her head in assent; but after a moment of silence found voice to say—
"I shall have money to-night."
Giving but a glance at his patient, whose pale face spoke of suffering and want, even in sleep, he left hastily. And Mary, folding her work, and carefully placing at her mother's side the medicine she might need on waking, at the same time charging little Lucy to stay by her in her absence, started out in the fierce storm to carry the dress to the heiress, who sat chafing at her delay.

Mary's father had once been rich; but crushed by adversity, he died and left his family poor, and his wife an invalid.
Dr. Hunter had known them in their days of prosperity, and on his return from the continent, a month previous to our story, had sought them out and offered his services gratuitously—an offer gratefully accepted. He knew they were poor, but never until Lucy's revelation had he dreamed of the extent of their poverty. Mary's loveliness had made a deep impression on his heart, and when he left them that night, it was with the resolve to shield her in the future, under his protecting love, from all life's cares.

It was indeed a fierce storm that Mary had to encounter on her way to Mr. Revere's splendid mansion, and her progress was necessarily slow.

As, chilled by the stinging blast, and blinded by the snow, she staggered up the steps of the handsome mansion and rang the bell, a sleigh dashed up to the door, and when it was opened to the girl, a gentleman alighted and ran lightly up, passing it ere it was closed, saying to the servant—
"I will wait for Miss Ella in the drawing room."

Mary started; she knew the voice of Dr. Hunter, and not wishing to be recognized, drew her hood more closely around her face.

"Poor girl!" said the doctor, "what a night for a woman to be abroad."
He little dreamed who he was pitying. Directed by the servant, Mary tapped lightly at the door of the opposite room. It was opened by Ella Raymond in a towering rage, her face distorted by passion.

"So you have come at last," she exclaimed angrily, "two hours behind time. I did think, Mary Grey, that you were poor enough to have that one virtue of punctuality."

"I am sorry I have disappointed you, Miss Raymond. I have sat up three nights until daybreak to complete it in time; but my mother has been very ill and needed all my care, which must be my excuse."

Dr. Hunter, in the drawing room, caught the silvery accents, and—forgive him, reader—listened.

"What is your mother's sickness to me? You promised the dress at seven, and now it is nine. Your excuse is a poor one."

"Believe me, I regret it, but it was impossible to be earlier. You will oblige me, as I am in haste, if you will now pay me for it and let me go."

"Pay you, indeed. Not I. I'll punish you for your tardiness. I'll teach you to make promises and break them. Just as many hours as you have kept me waiting for my dress, so many days will I keep you out of your money."
"Oh, Miss Raymond, you will not, you cannot be so cruel! My mother is ill and needs nourishment, my little sister is starving; and I depended on this twenty-five dollars from you to supply their wants. I must have the money."

"Not from me," said Ella, with a taunting laugh, as she shut the door in her face, and turned into the room to admire the exquisite garment.

Faint from want of food, and crushed by her disappointment, Mary left the abode of wealth, not knowing where to look for help in her trouble. On the pavement, still bright with the rich tint from the crimson curtains, she slipped and fell insensible. Strong arms raised her tenderly, and lifted her into the fur-lined sleigh at the door, and swiftly it sped homeward. Her fit of insensibility, produced by exhaustion and distress, was a long one, and when she awoke to consciousness, warmth and light were around her, while at the table, on which was spread a comfortable meal, sat famished little Lucy, eating to her heart's content. Her head was pillowed on the breast of Dr. Hunter, his arms enfolding her. Blushingly she sought to withdraw from his embrace, but bending over her, he whispered—

"No, darling; lie still, close to my heart, sheltered by my love. No more poverty, no more sorrow, if you will only give me the right to shelter you from it, dearest one."
Trembling with happiness unspeakable Mary hid her face against his shoulder; but gently turning it towards him, he looked down into the depths of her wonderful eyes, and reading there how fully his love was returned, pressed a fervent kiss upon her lips, and rising, led her to her mother, for her consent to and blessing on their union.

The clock struck ten, and the doctor said, with a fond glance at Mary—
"I must leave you now, to keep my appointment with the heiress. She must display my darling's work at the ball to-night, or die of vexation."

The expectant fair one waited half an hour for the tardy escort, but there was no look of anger on her beautiful face, no discordant notes marred the harmony of the soft, sweet tones with which she chided Dr. Hunter for his want of punctuality.

It was just one month since the night of Mrs. Eriston's ball. In that time Dr. Hunter had bought and furnished an elegant residence on Fifth Avenue. He was weary of a single life, he told his friends, and was preparing a cage for the bird of his choice. Invitations were out for a grand house-warming, at which the world would know the select bride of the "best catch in the city."

Every one fixed their eyes upon the belle of the season, and were confident that the charming heiress, to whom of late he had been paying marked attention, was the envied one.

"He will certainly propose to-night, Guardy," she said to Mr. Revere, as she stood before the glass arranging her graceful ringlets. "You will not have me on your hands much longer."

"Disappointed once, Ella," he answered, "you may be again. Still you may wake me if you come home engaged to Doctor Hunter."

The rooms were crowded, as Ella, superbly dressed, swept into the splendid hall she expected soon to call her own. Many curious eyes were turned upon her as she passed with queenly grace to the reception room, and had reached the spot where the host stood with a lady beside him in bridal attire, "lovely as a poet's dream."

She started and turned pale, but recovering her self-possession, advanced, while he, holding out his hand, greeted her as a friend, then leading her gently forward, presented her to his bride.

Stupefied she gazed on the face of Mary Grey, the despised seamstress, uttered an hysterical shriek, and fainted away. She had indeed met an unexpected rival, and the shock of seeing the child of poverty elevated to the position her ambitious hopes had led her to believe would be her own, was too much for even pride to conceal.

Mary, ever considerate, came to her side. "It is the heat," she said to the inquisitive crowd. "Do take her to the conservatory, and leave her with me."

She did not, as may be imagined, awake her guardian; nor did he wonder when he read in the morning paper of the surprise Dr. Hunter had prepared for his friends. Comfort and happiness soon restored the invalid mother to health, and rounded the form of little Lucy, who never complained of hunger.

To Mary, life flows on like a fairy dream, brighter far by contrast with the past; and we need hardly add, that Dr. Hunter has never ceased to bless the night of the storm in which he opened his arms and heart to take into their warm shelter the poor, unpaid seamstress, Mary Grey.—Home Gazette.

DESCRIPTION OF A QUADRILLE.—It is described thus by a young man who tried it:

"We both bowed to both of us and then to the other; then the fiddle tuned and the thing started. I grabbed her female hand, she squeezed mine, we both slung each other, then changed base clear across the room, jumped up and down ever so many times, then my dear and me dozed a doo and hopped home again (from a foreign shore), then we two forward, four ladies changed, we X over, turned around twice, shazayed sideways, I backed to place, she dittoes, side couple to the left, side couple turn gentlemen, side couple turn ladies, ladies turn side couples, head couples turn side couples, all hands around, back again. First feller takes opposite gal, slings her around, take your own gal and t'other feller's gal forward and back, twist both gals two times, sling 'em to opposite feller, let him do the same as you, and back again to places, light gentlemen balance to heavy lady duplicate, promenade all the gals to the center, fellers catch hold of each other's hands, bob up and down, and arm over ladies stop, jump up and down, each feller takes his lady back to place. Right gentleman spin right lady, right lady spin left gentleman; all twist each other, do it again, over, repeat, once more, keep it up, all turn t'other backwards, sideways, each couple swing t'other couple, cross over, back again to our seats."

ONE of the stupidest pieces of campaign lying that has fallen under our observation in a rather extended acquaintance with politics is a document just put forth by the radical committee at Washington, and very freely quoted in the rural newspapers. One of its objects is to show a large reduction of taxation, which we are asked to credit to the present administration; and we are therefore treated to a tabular statement, from which it would appear that taxes to the amount of $55,212,000 annually have been removed from the productive industry of the country. That looks exceedingly well on paper, but the same paper claims that the internal revenue was increased from March, 1869, to May, 1870, $66,880,640 28. Now here we have two diametrically conflicting averments—one, that our internal taxes have been reduced some fifty-five millions a year, and the other that the revenue from that source has been increased to about an equal amount. One or the other of these might be true, but is apparent that both cannot be. Our loyal friends will find it necessary to employ more expert professors of mendacity, if it is expected that the public shall put faith in them.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"I never attempted to reorganize my wife but once. I shall never attempt it again. I'd been to a public dinner, and had allowed myself to be betrayed into drinkin' several people's healths; and wishin' to make 'em as robust as possible, I continued drinkin' their health until my own was affected. Consequence was, I presented myself to Betsy's bedside late at nite with considerable nicker concealed about my person. I hed somehow got persersion of a hoss whisp on my way home, and rememberin' some cranky observashun of Mrs. Ward's in the mornin' I snapped the whip putty lively, and in a very loud voice I said: 'Betsy, you need reorganizin'.' I have come, Betsy, I continued, crackin' the whip over the bed, 'I have come to reorganize you.' I dreamed that nite that somebody had laid a hoss whip across me sev'rl times, and when I woke up I found she had. I haifnt drank much of anything since; and if I ever have another reorganizin' job on hand I shall let it out."

AN UNLUCKY DAY.—The 18th day of the month seems to be unlucky for France. On the 18th day of October, 1813, the great battle of Leipzig was concluded; the 18th of June, 1815, is the date of the battle of Waterloo; and a new date, the 18th day of August, 1870, the battle of Rezonville, has joined the other two disastrous dates.

THE WAR IN EUROPE.

THE war news has not been, during the week past, of so exciting a nature as formerly, still it is interesting. The Prussians claim to have completely invested Paris, and have their guns in readiness to commence a bombardment of the city. On the other hand the French claim to have gained an important victory at one point and broke the Prussian line. Thiers has failed in his mission to the Russian Government, the Czar refusing even to have an interview with him. Napoleon has offered to form an alliance, offensive and defensive, with Prussia, to pay indemnity and make other reparation, but does not want to give any territory. He says that according to the plan he proposes a permanent peace might be maintained, and one that would be of great benefit to both countries. We doubt, very much, whether there are as many men under arms in Paris as reported, rumor placing them at above 1,000,000. If they have such a force as intimated they ought soon to be able to make a very forcible show upon the battle-field. Russia, it is reported, continues arming, and if such is the case there is but little doubt that she means to have the "sick man" before the French and Prussians settle their matters.

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.—We notice that the much talked of Alabama claims are again being agitated by the American press. The occasion of this is the announcement of the appointment of Morton, of Indiana, to succeed Motley, as minister to England. It is announced that the new appointee will surely secure the payment of these claims from England. We are of the opinion he won't. So far as the validity of the claims are concerned we will not presume to discuss, but we do think that our Government has been sufficiently disgraced in the matter to let it drop, or else declare war against England and force payment by the prowess of arms. We are not particularly fond of war, nor bloodshed, but it seems to us if these claims are valid there has been enough parleying about them. If they are not legal, why continue to humiliate and disgrace the American people by parading these demands before the world constantly. If they are just, force payment; if unjust, let them drop.

STEVENSON'S REGIMENT.—Francis D. Clark, Esq., 81 Cedar street, New York, desires information of the living members of this famous regiment. Mr. Clark came to California in this regiment, and from '49 up to about 1856 kept a ferry on the Stanislaus river, in San Joaquin county, known to old residents of that section as "Clark & Sirey's ferry." He is now collecting information to perpetuate the history of the members of this regiment, and persons who came to this State with Col. J. D. Stevenson are requested to address Mr. Clark as above, and give their names, the number of their company, where they reside, and any other facts they may deem necessary. Any person who knows anything of any member of this regiment now dead will confer a favor by giving Mr. Clark the facts.

MORE.—The Omaha Herald charges that Butler, the Radical candidate for Governor of Nebraska, has stolen $52,000 of public school money. It is needless to say that Butler is one of the "peculiar" friends of the cause of education. Radicalism has an itching palm, and even the schools and churches are not safe from its avaricious clutches.

LIBERAL.—W. W. Corcoran, of Washington City, who held a bond of the Virginia University for $1,000, bearing eight per cent. interest, has donated the same to the institution. It is well known that the University has been seriously embarrassed, financially, owing to losses incurred during the war, and this act of Mr. Corcoran is in the highest degree commendable.

VERY GOOD.—A New York paper says that some friends of General Schenck, member of Congress from Ohio, recently waited on General Grant and urged the appointment of an influential Republican in Schenck's district as a favor to the latter. Grant listened with his usual stolidity, and finally closed the interview by saying he had concluded to appoint one of his second cousins.

THE population of Montana, exclusive of Indians, is 20,500. The Indians are estimated at 18,000 more. There are nearly 2,000 Chinese.

THE PROSPECT.

The prospects for the success of the Democratic party, in the various State elections this Fall, are certainly most flattering. In States where a few months since, the most sanguine scarcely dreamed of a hope of success, the Democrats are confidently looking forward to a victory. The Fifteenth Amendment and Radical corruption are working the most astonishing results. It has become so profitable to hold office under radical regime that there is unceasing strife among the leaders for a sop at the flesh pots. In some of the States the party has split and the different factions are fighting each other like cats and dogs, and heaping abuse upon each other in a most agreeable manner. In the State of Nevada the corrupt manner in which the State government has been conducted has driven quite a number into the Democratic ranks, who had succeeded, after gagging three or four times in swallowing the Fifteenth Amendment and Enforcement bill. A whole army of whitewashers, headed by Fitch and Sargent, are engaged in re-fighting the war of the Rebellion, and gilding over the black deeds of Radicalism. But they don't succeed very well. The people of that State have been galled by their lies too often. The Democrats are very confident of success. In Missouri the Germans have bolted the regular Radical party, and under the leadership of Schurz are making a vigorous campaign, having put a full ticket in the field. Certainly the Democrats of the United States have many reasons to be hopeful. The immense reduction of the Radical majority in Maine, as shown by the vote at the late election, is a true indicator of the mighty revolution that is taking place in public opinion.

When the Radicals come to place their negro candidate for Vice-President in the field, next year, as they certainly must, in order to meet the demands of their black adherents, the desertions from the party will be so numerous as to be without parallel in political history.

It is our opinion that one of the most serious errors committed by the last Legislature, was the act permitting the Mercantile Library Association to hold a series of lotteries. The act virtually abolished a much needed law. Any person or association or person can now hold lotteries if they desire, for our laws are made for all men alike. We notice that a district school up in Nevada county has started a gift enterprise, the prizes in which amount to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This appears to us to be an excellent way to inculcate the desire for gaming in the minds of the young men as well as in those of the older ones.

SUBSIDY TO THE RAILROAD IN MERCED.—We learn that agents of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad Company have asked Merced county to make a donation to the railroad under the five per cent. law. The Board of Supervisors have called an election to decide upon the matter. We are informed that the majority of the people of Merced favor a subsidy. The company have entered into an agreement with the people that in case the subsidy is granted they will carry freight, from a certain point in Merced to San Francisco, at the rate of $5 50 per ton. Other stipulations are also made.

The silk production of California is now estimated at $50,000 annually, while Europe produces silk, in its raw state, to the annual value of $75,000,000, and the production of the like in Asia is estimated at $141,000,000. France has produced $140,000,000 of manufactured silks in one year, giving employment to half a million of adults.

The United States Grand Jury indicted a large number of Tax-Collectors in this State for violating the Enforcement Bill, by collecting foreign miner's tax. SHIP CANAL.—The preliminary survey of the ship canal, to connect the city of Stockton with deep water navigation, has been completed, and the length of the canal is ten miles and a fraction, with a mean fall of eight feet in the whole distance. The canal will cost, when completed, about $1,000,000.

It is announced that in case a favorable decision is obtained on the subsidy case, now in the Supreme Court, the Stockton and Visalia Railroad Company will commence active operations on their road immediately. They have material enough on hand to complete twenty miles of road.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

DARING ROBBERY.—On last Saturday night a most daring robbery was committed at St. Stevens' hog camp, on the slough, below Parker's Store. Mr. John Stroud, and Mr. John Overstreet had been camped at the point indicated for several days hunting and driving together their hogs. On Saturday evening they returned to their camp and found two men in it, who apologized for their presence by saying they thought the place deserted. Stroud and Overstreet went to work and prepared supper, of which they invited the intruders to partake. Supper disposed of and the party loitered about the camp till Stroud, who had a pistol strapped about him, took it off and laid it to one side, when one of the visitors picked it up and expressed a desire to purchase it. Stroud refused to sell, but the visitor made a forced sale by cocking it and pointing it at him, and telling him to step out. As Stroud turned he saw the other robber pointing a shot gun, which he had picked up in the camp, at Overstreet. The party only had a few dollars in money with them, so the robbers magnanimously permitted them to keep it, but they took the pistol and shot gun, some clothing and two saddles, they then saddled their horses, and started off, taking with them, to prevent pursuit, the horses of their luckless victims. The horses were subsequently turned loose and they returned to camp in the morning. One of the robbers was a heavy set, dark complected man, and the other was a young man, light complected, and about twenty years old. They seemed to be well posted about matters in this section.

The good looking young man who presides over that portion of this establishment devoted to his Satanic Majesty, the Devil, went to the Centerville camp meeting in company with a sheep man and returned on Monday. This young man of ours is very enthusiastic in his praise of the beautiful fair of King's river. He says he never saw such a lot of pretty girls in his life, and has been quoting poetry and talking about flowing curls, teeth of pearls, liquid eyes, and the like ever since. We are in hopes of getting his nerves quieted by the end of the week. We will state, in regard to the entire party, that when they returned to Millerton, their appearance reminded one very forcibly of a passage of Scripture that speaks about "tarrying long," "wine cups," "redness of eyes," and the like.

CALIFORNIA LION KILLED.—A short time since, we learn from Capt. R. P. Mace, Mr. Beasore, living near the head of the Fresno river, killed a California lion which measured a few inches over eleven feet from tip to tip. Mr. Beasore and another party were in search of the lion. When they came upon it a dog belonging to the gentleman named attacked the animal. It took refuge in a tree, and he then fixed his hunting knife upon a pole and went up under the tree and killed it. The deed was one of great daring.

NOT VERY SUCCESSFUL.—We learn that the camp meeting of the Cumberland Presbyterians, near Centerville, which has been in progress for a week or two past, has not been a very successful one. We heard that up to Saturday night last, but one person had experienced religion. The meeting broke up on Monday morning. The attendance throughout has been very limited, as compared with the two Methodist meetings that have been held in this county this season.

THE CIRCUS.—The circus of Lee & Co., which performed in this place on last Wednesday night, brought out a very large crowd, considering the limited amount of advertising done by the company—only four or five days' notice being given. There were about two hundred and fifty persons present. The circus was a very slim affair. In fact, but for the Lee children, there wouldn't have been any show at all.

JOHN FRASER, charged with the murder of Louis Baccagrupi, at Buchanan Hollow, in June last, was arraigned before Judge Bradford on last Monday, and pleaded "Not guilty" to the charge. His trial was fixed for today. Campbell and Deering, of Mariposa, will appear for the defense, and District Attorney Allison, assisted by R. T. Burford, will conduct the prosecution.

BAD CONDITION.—The road just below Centerville, we notice, is in a very bad condition, or rather there are a large number of badger holes in the road, which renders it very unsafe for horses. It would be very easy for a horse to break his leg by getting it into one of the holes. The Road Commissioner had better take a look at the matter.

SOMEbody WAS HURT.—In an account of the runaway of Bennett & Co's stage, in a late number, we stated that no person was hurt by the accident. We were mistaken. Mr. E. J. Hildreth, of this county, was quite painfully injured by jumping from the stage. One of his arms is almost powerless up to this time.

The meeting of the District Court has called into town a very large number of persons from all sections of the county. The amount of business before the Court is not very large, and it will be finished up very easily this week.

The attention of sheep men is called to the card of Mr. W. C. Taylor, in another column. Mr. T. proposes to take charge of bucks, and give them good pasturage, at a moderate compensation.

The Indian murder case was up in the District Court yesterday. Deering and Shannon appeared for the defense.

LIFE INSURANCE.—We call attention to the advertisement of the California Mutual Life Insurance Company in another column. No parent who has the interest of his children at heart, or desires to leave a competency for the support of them and his wife, should fail to insure his life. For young men of small means, and in fact for all classes of persons, the ending that plan of insurance surpasses anything that we know of for the investment of money. The small savings of the poor are hardly sufficient to accomplish anything with, but if applied in the purchase of a ten or fifteen year endowment policy, the holder will, at the expiration of the time, have accumulated a considerable sum of money, and with it he will be enabled to enter into business. Life insurance is a subject worthy the attention of all.

THE MEETING.—The citizens of Millerton should remember the Mass Convention at the Court House this evening. The meeting should be very careful in selecting members of the Committee. The best and most influential men should be placed upon it. No one, however, should be selected who is in the least liable to shirk duty.

CAPTURED.—On last Friday evening Sheriff Walker brought in Mah Troy, the Indian charged with being an accomplice of Fresno Tom in killing the old Indian across the river last Spring, and put him in the county jail.

FIRE.—There is evidently a fire somewhere, or it couldn't be so smoky in this section. The smoke is so very thick that it makes the sun look as though it was behind clouds.

SHEPHERD PONY LOST.—The Circus Company lost, near Plainburg, while on their way to this place last week, a Shepherd pony belonging to them.

TOM ALLEN has had the old cellar in the vacant lot adjoining the Court House filled up. He deserves the thanks of the community for the action.

It will be seen, by the published proceedings of the District Court, that J. M. Shannon, Esq., has applied for admission to the Bar.

OPENED.—Mr. S. W. Henry has opened his new hotel, he having refitted the old Court House building for that purpose.

IMPROVEMENT.—Payne has built a sidewalk from his grocery to Henry's hotel.

There are said to be 6,000,000 dogs in the United States.

General Debility is Nature's Appeal for Help.

Thousands of persons, without any specific ailment, are the victims of languor and lassitude. The unthinking are apt to confound this species of inertia with laziness: whereas it usually arises from a want of organic energy, for which the subjects of it are no more responsible than the near sighted are for their defective vision. Such persons, although they may be free from pain are as truly invalids, and as much in need of medical aid as if they were tormented with the pangs of acute disease. They require a TONIC and ALTERNATIVE, that will rouse and regulate their torpid organizations. In cases of this kind, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS produce an immediate and most favorable effect. The debilitated and desponding valetudinarian, who feels as if he were but half alive; who shuns company, and has no relish either for business or pleasure, is METAMORPHOSIZED BY A BRIEF COURSE OF THIS MOST POTENT VEGETABLE INVIGORANT INTO QUITE A DIFFERENT BEING. The change effected by the BITTERS, in his bodily and mental condition, is a surprise to himself and to his friends. He hopes no longer; the active principle of life, which seemed to have died out of him, is re-awakened, and he feels like a new man. Remembering that debility is not only an affliction itself, but an invitation to DISEASE, no time should be lost in recruiting the broken down system with this choicest and most potent of all tonics and nervines.

This celebrated medicine has won a deservedly high reputation as an alleviator of pain and a preserver of health. It has become a household remedy, from the fact that it gives immediate and permanent relief. It is a purely vegetable preparation, made from the best and purest materials, safe to keep and to use in every family. It is recommended by physicians and persons of all classes, and to-day, after a public trial of thirty years, it averages a life of untold stands unrivaled and unexcelled, spreading its usefulness over the wide world. Its large and increasing sale affords positive evidence of its enduring fame. We do not deem it necessary to say much in its favor as one small bottle will do more to convince you of its efficacy than all the advertisements in the world. Give it one fair trial, and you would not without it for ten times its cost.

Pure Blood, Muddy Water.

Pure blood may be compared to pure water, and impure blood to muddy water. If you pass muddy water through muslin you still it; continue the process and you cover it with thick mud. Blood passes through all parts of the body; if good and pure it nourishes and cleanses the parts it goes through. If impure it leaves more or less dirt behind it. BRANDRETH'S PILLS are the medicine wanted, because they are made on purpose to take dirty humors out of the blood, and they never fail. These pills cure scrofula, even of forty years' standing; they have cured cases of rheumatism when the patient had not walked for four years; of paralysis, where the legs had lost their power of movement for seventeen years. The evidence in these cases cannot be disputed. Is there a town in the world where such evidences exist not? If BRANDRETH'S PILLS have been much used there we know that such evidence can be found. But be sure and see upon each box my name in the Government stamp, in white letters.

If you are suffering or have suffered from involuntary spasms, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky or frothy, or is itropy on setting? Or does a thick scum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling on this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eyes as brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and hand and little appetite, and you attribute his to dyspepsia, or liver complaint?

NOW, READER,
self-abuse, venereal diseases badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health,
MAKE THE MAN.

DID YOU EVER THINK

that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men, are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health. You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, or palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always pleasant and polite in the society of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or other meannesses about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflated by running to excess. These will not only

RUIN THEIR CONSTITUTION,

but also those they do business with or for. How many men from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—

IDIOTCY, LUNACY, PARALYSIS,

spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a Diuretic.

HELMBOLD'S

BLACKSMITHING AND WHEEL

WRIGHT ESTABLISHMENT,
Millerton, Fresno Co., California

EVERY KIND OF BLACKSMITHING done in the shortest notice, and in the most workmanlike manner. Particular attention paid to HORSE-SHOEING.

GANG PLOUGHS, HARROWS, CULTIVATORS, etc., and everything necessary for farmers' use, manufactured with dispatch and at low prices.

GASTON'S CELEBRATED

EXCELSSIOR GRAIN SOWER!

Is also manufactured at this establishment. This machine can be worked in conjunction with Gang Ploughs, or separately on wheels, and is admitted by all who have seen it to be the best Sower now in use.

WHEELWRIGHTING.

Wagons and carriages made to order at low rates. All sorts of wagon repairing, etc., done. The best of material used, and none but the most skillful workmen employed.

TO FARMERS!

I HAVE BOUGHT THE RIGHT for Fresno County to manufacture and sell Leggett's celebrated gates. The only patent gate that has stood the test of practical use, and found to be what it was represented. This gate can be opened at a distance of twenty feet, and closed again after passing through, without ever dismounting from your wagons. The opening apparatus being above the reach of stock there is no danger of its being opened by them. It is simple in construction, can be easily managed and understood, and is not likely to get out of repair.

The right to use it will be sold to any person for the low sum of $5.00, and gates manufactured for parties desiring them in the most substantial manner.

I intend erecting one of these gates in Millerton and farmers are requested to call and examine it before purchasing, and be convinced that it is BEAUTY.

Beautiful faces—they that wear
The light of a pleasant spirit there,
It matters little if dark or fair.

Beautiful hands are they that do
The work of the noble, good and true,
Busy for them the long day through.

Beautiful feet are they that go
Swiftly to lighten another's woe,
Through summer's heat or winter's snow.

Beautiful children, if rich or poor,
Who walk the pathways, sweet and sure,
That lead to the mansions bright and pure.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

THE STORMY PETREL.—An old navigator, writing for the Little Corporal says, "This lonely little wanderer on the wide ocean is seen at great distances from the land, and generally just before storms and while they are raging. It is very like the robin in size and shape, with small, webbed feet, and their feathers are of a light blue color. Always flying low they dart from wave to wave, skimming on the surface of the sea, just like the swallow on the land, and equally as swift in their flight. How often have I watched them in the wildest storm at sea, resting for a few seconds on the top of a huge wave, and then darting from wave to wave as quick as lightning and seldom at rest. They are called by the sailors, Mother Carey's chickens."

Through some superstitious story, in years gone by, they were regarded with ominous dread by the crews of ships in a storm, as they darted about the ship, as if something dreadful was about to happen through their innocent and harmless presence. But all these superstitious notions have died away among the sailors of the present day; and I have often regarded these lonely little wanderers in a storm at sea with a kind of pity as they dashed from wave to wave, quite regardless of the fury of the storm, or the wild dashing and toaming of the sea, their only note being a short, shrill chirrup. But as our great and beneficent creator tempers the wind to the shorn lamb, so also has he provided for these harmless little birds in such a way that they can stand the storm and sea without injury.

I have never caught any of these birds, they are so shy and quick in their movements, although I have easily caught albatrosses, cape pigeons and other sea birds. They are never seen in great number, but a solitary pair, or at most four, are all I have ever seen near a ship at sea; and I have never known anyone who ever found their breeding places among the rocks or islets near the sea, where other sea birds congregate in the breeding season.

"MOTHER," said little Johnny, running into the house on Friday afternoon, when the thunder was sounding heavily, "it's going to rain, for don't you hear the pumps going?"

WHAT is bigger than the biggest nutmeg? A nutmeg grater.

GRATITUDE is the music of the heart, when its chords are swept by the breeze of kindness.

CAN STAND IT NO LONGER.—We learn from the Yreka Union that Hon. J. A. Felter, County Judge of Trinity county has severed his connection with the Republican party, with which he has been acting for the last eight years. In a card published in the Trinity Journal, announcing his withdrawal from that party, he makes these bold and manly declarations: "New issues having come before the American people for adjustment, I claim the right to think and act for myself, regardless of party, which in my judgment will carry out measures that will best conduce to the whole people of the United States. Without retrograding from any principle I ever advocated as a Union man, I am free to confess that I cannot follow the radical leaders of the Republican party in their insane efforts to degrade American suffrage, evicted in Congress by the attempt to strike the word white from our naturalization laws, as well as by the ratification of the Fifteenth Amendment, which was simply an outrage upon the American people, having been adopted by the Legislatures of many States in defiance of the well understood sentiment of the people, and being made a condition precedent to the admission to the Union of some of the Southern States."

Don't depend alone upon your own hands and the labor of other men's hands: use steam power if possible, and make it known by printer's ink that you are prepared to do business.

The West Point calets say, when a lady wears a long dress to one of their hops they love to look at her; when she wears a short one they love to dance with her.

The editor of the New Orleans Picayune ate, the other day, with a silver spoon which once belonged to General Washington. He says it was the only one Gen. Butler left there.

CAN young women who use firearms be called shooting galleries?

"LOTHAIR" has given a name to a new perfume.

HOUSE, FARM AND GARDEN.

CANNING TOMATOES.—In the Syracuse Union we find the following: "The most thorough and reliable mode of canning tomatoes is as follows: They are just sufficiently steamed, not cooked to, scald or loosen the skin, and are then poured upon tables and the skins removed, care being taken to preserve the tomato in as solid a state as possible. After being peeled, they are placed in large pans, with false bottoms perforated with holes, so as to strain off the liquor that emanates from them. From these pans they are carefully placed by hand into cans, which are filled as solidly as possible—in other words, all are put in the cans that will hold. They are then put through the usual process and hermetically sealed. The cans, when opened for use, present the tomato not only like the natural vegetable in taste and color, but also in appearance; and moreover, when thus sealed, they are warranted to keep in any climate, and when opened will taste as natural as when just plucked from the vine."

HOW TO TREAT CHOKING CATTLE.—A Pennsylvania correspondent of the Country Gentleman says with regard to choked cattle, that he once killed a valuable Devon ox by trying to punch an apple down his throat with a whip stock, rupturing the pipe by the operation. He suggests a better method, as follows: "Put a rope round the horns and draw the head up to a tree or some suitable high place; hold the mouth open, fill it with water from a suitable vessel, close immediately the mouth and nostrils, and hold firmly till the animal struggles; then take hands suddenly from the nose and mouth, and the concussion of air will move the object."

CARROTS FOR STOCK.—It is ascertained by those who have tested the matter, that for stock feeding an acre of carrots is worth 200 per cent. more than the same ground will do in grass. This will pay for the increased expense of cultivation, and leave a fair margin of extra profit. Cattle take readily to carrots as a portion of their daily food, and the large yield per acre should make them a greater favorite with farmers than they generally are. The thinning and weeding appear to be a great drawback to their more general cultivation. But with this expense the crop will pay.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Rural World says: "Winter or summer, except in stormy time, there is no place so comfortable for colts or tired work horses as a good pasture lot. To tie up a horse at night in a narrow cell, with a plank floor to stand on, is a specimen of cruelty that civilization ought to be ashamed of."

RED ants which are sometimes so troublesome in gardens, green houses, conservatories, and dwellings, may be trapped by taking a white China plate, spreading a thin covering of lard over it, and put it in the place infested by the insects.

A LOCAL EDITOR.—The Chicago Republican thus enumerates the qualifications of a "local editor": "He must combine the logicity of a magician with the impudence of the devil. He must know how to time a race horse, gaff a cock, teach a Sunday school, preach a charity sermon, run a saw mill, keep a hotel, turn a double summersault and brew whiskey. He must be up to a thing or two in political economy, au fait in the matter of cooking beans. On the trail of a mysterious item he must be an inveterate sleuth-hound. His hide must be like that of a rhinoceros. He must be insensible to the cruellest snubs, and manifest no sense of anger when he is kicked down stairs. He must throw modesty to the dogs and let his tiger howl. But above all he must be an adept at the art of puffing. He must at all times be prepared to say something funny in regard to Smith's grocery, or to surround Miss Florence's establishment with a halo of glowing adjectives. He must be enthusiastic on the subject of hams, verbose in extolling hardware, and highly imaginative in the matter of dry goods. He must talk learnedly of panoramas, with a liberal admixture of knowing words, such as 'warmth,' 'foreshortening,' 'high lights,' 'foreground,' 'perspective,' etc. He must be heavy on concert, with a capacity to appreciate Miss Squawk's execution of difficult feats in the 'upper register,' ecstatic in praise of double-headed calves, and eloquent in behalf of fat women and living skeletons."

Mrs. Patterson Bonaparte says that her son will yet be the ruler of France. She counts upon his performing prodigies of valor during the present war, and being elected President out of gratitude by the Republicans.

The discovery of portions of a defunct Chinaman in some of the tea chests opened the other day by a New York house, has depressed the demand for the beverage which "cheers but does not inebriate."

Boston is wrapped in astonishment at the previous result of the census in that city. Nothing short of 275,000 souls was expected, but the returns show only 253,924.

CHEERFUL.—A druggist in Washington avenue, has this cheerful invitation in his show window: "Come in and get twelve emetics for one shilling."

THE ELLIPTIC

SEWING MACHINES ! ! WARRANTED THE BEST.

THE Elliptic Sewing Machines are manufactured and warranted by the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company. The late and important improvements enable us to guarantee to every purchaser that the Elliptic Machine will do more work, better work, and a greater variety of work than any other Sewing Machine now in use. The economy of the Elliptic Machine in a family is almost incredible: with one, a good operator can do the work of twelve hands. By it, the making of garments is reduced from a question of hours to one of minutes as the following table will show:

THE BEST SEWING MACHINE.

Highest Honors ever Conferred

FOR SEWING MACHINES.

THE Machine which bears his name has long been regarded as the standard of excellence, and has become celebrated all over the world. The work done by these Machines is unsurpassed—sewing the thinnest muslin or the thickest cloth, with equal facility; and requiring no extra adjusting for uneven thickness or passing over seams; it turns its own hem as it sews, sewing a seam stronger than the fabric itself. To sew in hem, fell, tuck, braid, cord, quilt &c. &c. it seems more like a thing of life than a machine moved by the will of the operator. It is capable of doing any description of sewing that is required in a family, and also for seamstresses and dressmakers it will be found invaluable. They seldom or never give any trouble in operating, and in a word, are the

MOST SATISFACTORY SEWING MACHINES IN USE.

Notwithstanding their great superiority, they are sold at prices as low as other first-class Machines. A Medallion likeness of Mr. Howe is imbedded in the plates of every Howe Machine, without which none are genuine. Every purchaser of a Sewing Machine, should inquire for

Elias Howe, Jr.'s Sewing Machines,
And if they are not sold in their vicinity, address the General Agency for Illustrated Circulars, etc., and do not purchase until you have thoroughly investigated these renowned machines.

There is a difference!—All the premiums that the WEED Sewing Machine Company claim, from the

First and Highest Premium at the Great World's Fair at Paris, 1867

up to the present time, (see small circulars) are each and every one GENUINE Awards, or we will forfeit $500 for each and every false claim! Other Sewing Machines have had their Premiums but how many of them in the last two years?

There is a difference! save the "True Chronicle!" This magnificent Sewing Machine comes forward in good time, and strikes exactly the right mark. Also, the editor of the "Independent" says, "Such a Sewing Machine as the WEED—No. 2—has never been seen."

Thus the NEW WEED Sewing Machine is the

SIMPLEST AND STRONGEST,

the last, and as we believe in modern improvement we may add the BEST Sewing Machine made as yet. It is the best Family Sewing Machine; it is the best Boot, Tailor's, Saddler's Sewing Machine; it is the most successful Sewing Machine! For already its name is a household word in both Europe and America, and is rapidly taking the place of all others. Its immense consequent on the manufacture is in Hartford, Connecticut.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Asthma and Consumption, etc., etc.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effective remedy that can be given against the most dangerous and dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and, indeed, as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this article for their protection.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them under the Cherry Pectoral, they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of their here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair check-ed, and baldness often, though not always, arrested by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such a remain can be saved for usefulness by this application.

Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil

white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume. Prepared by
